A. This cartoon says that the U.S. will go to them if you do not change to democracy. John O'Sullivan says, "Smite unto death the tyranny of kings, hierarchs and oligarchs and carry the glad tidings of peace and good will." Everyone should live in peace to all mankind.

1. Is the last sentence an appropriate conclusion to this paragraph? If the answer is no, what would an appropriate conclusion be?

B. This cartoon says—follow by example of our nation to the way of peace and equality of our country. So if you don't follow by example then we will. This reflects O'Sullivan's views on Manifest Destiny because—He rule out kings and monarchies. Also he says, "Providence is with us, and no earthly power can." He was describing how our nation leads by a country as one with power and beliefs.

2. Should the words in bold be separated by a hyphen? If the answer is no, how should they be corrected?

3. Look at the underlined sentence. Finish the incomplete thought.

C. This cartoon says if you don't come to us, we will come to you and we are going to go to war and kill you. This reflects O'Sullivan's views on Manifest Destiny. O'Sullivan says, America is destined for better deeds. It is our unparalleled glory that we have no reminiscences of battle fields. He believes that we are supposed to lead by example.

4. There is something missing in the underlined sentence. What is it?

Paragraph 4:

No one wants to feel like they are always being watched. However, there are times when an eye in the sky can be a life saver. Surveillance cameras are a good idea and the Francisco chief of police makes a good argument. First, there was a bombing in Boston Marathon last April. Sifting through video surveillance footage identified two suspects and captured them before they could carry out any more attacks. Second, crimes declined 30% in areas where cameras were installed. Next, Surveillance is used as an investigative tool. This helps law enforcement with crimes. Also, in Denver authorities use public surveillance cameras during storms to determine where emergency help is needed. Authorities are not allowed to monitor cameras in real time. Finally, surveillance are turned off during protests and other events involving freedom of speech.

Smile! You're on candid camera, well maybe not candid camera, but you may be on someones camera. In a discussion of technology and privacy one controversial issue has been surveillance cameras. People who favor surveillance cameras claim them to be an effective crime fighting tool. On the other hand people who oppose them say that they are not effective and invade our privacy. I think those in favor make the strongest argument.

First, cameras improve the chances of catching bad guys in the act of committing crimes. Facial recognition software can pick someones face out of a mountain of data. Cameras are a fast way to find criminals, after the Boston bombing it took only 3 days for the FBI to release shots of two suspects. Surveillance cameras can detect dangerous things such as unidentified packages and radiation.

Although opponents claim that surveillance cameras generate too much data, surveillance cameras have come a long way. For instance, the Seven 11 by my house house high crime rate the surveillance cameras they have makes people feel safer.

Even though we have to give up some of our privacy to feel safer without surveillance cameras the crime rate would be really high so therefore I am willing to give up a certain amount of privacy to feel safe.
